To Whom It May Concern,

Although I am usually skeptical about these types of claims, I recently had the M-Tech Fuel Saver installed on my F-150 pickup truck, largely because of the 90-day money back guarantee.

The before and after testing showed an increased fuel efficiency of 19%. Since I spend $6,000 - $10,000 on fuel annually, this translates to a saving of $1140 - $1900 every year. That is if fuel costs stay where they are today, which seems unlikely.

As a financial advisor, this type of dollar value makes great sense!

I'm not sure why anyone wouldn't do this. Given our current oil & gas market conditions, and the future potential for rising costs at the pump, the timing of introducing such a simple cost-saving measure is perfect!
